

PLGL 103C : Causes of Action in Contract and Tort

A “cause of action” here is defined as a right the law gives and will enforce for one to recover something from another. It is the legal foundation from which the plaintiff derives the right of action against a defendant. This course is limited to the elements and defenses of various causes of action in contract and tort; it does not address remedies.

Credits 2

Lab/Practicum/Clinical Hours 0

Lecture Hours 2

Prerequisite Courses

PLGL 101C